TRIBUTE

(Written by Charles Warner)

Today we have turned back the pages of history over 200 years to view Merrimack through the events of the past. We have seen the influence of our legislators, trades, preachers, and scholars spread throughout the town and country. We find also frequent mention of Merrimack's soldier heroes who have fought in various wars.

In each war, Merrimack men have gone forth to answer the call to arms; men of all ranks - men of all creeds; fighting to preserve what they know is Right for their own homes. In every war some have died in an attempt to secure for us the privileges they know to be ours. For them - and for those who served in any way, we pause in silent tribute to their courage and patriotism. May their families know the peace for which they fought. May their children go forth with their ideals to make the Merrimack of the future and the coming closely knit world worthy of their sacrifices.
